Limit Time To Complete Street Work

BACON STREET PAVING

MUST BE FINISHED

WITHIN THIRTY DAYS

The city council last Tuesday denied a request by the Hazard Construction company for an extension of three months for the completion of paving on Bacon street. The time limit was set at thirty days and all work on the paving must be finished within that period, while the assessment roll may be continued later.

NEW LIGHT INSTALLED

A new arc light has been installed by City Manager Fred Rhodes this week at the corner of Cable street and Santa Monica avenue, and it is very likely that several other dark spots will get arc lights in due order. More illumination is needed at the junction of West Point Loma boulevard and the Mission bay bridge.

Spinnet Chorus And 1-Act Dramas

SPECIAL ENTERTAINMENT

NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT AT

POINT LOMA ASSEMBLY

Under the auspices of the Community Service, of which Ed F. Hastings is president, and Tam Deering, secretary and director, a special entertainment will be given at the Point Loma Assembly hall next Friday night, March 5. Admission will be free and everybody is invited. The Spinnet chorus will appear in costume and will render several selected numbers. The dramatic department will put on two or three one-act plays and Miss Roberta Winans will give an interesting talk on folk dancing, after which several old-time dances will be given as well as a general indulgence in folk dancing. A good time is promised to all in attendance.

M. B. POLO TEAM

BEATS CITY RINK BUNCH

By a score of 7 to 0, the Mission Beach Roller Rink team outplayed Carlton & Simpson's City Rink team early this week at Ed Kichham's M. B. Rink. The game drew a large crowd of enthusiastic skaters and the goose-egg was handed to the visitors in thrilling style.

BIG ALTERATION JOB

Edgar F. Hastings, the well-known Point Loma contractor, has secured the job of making alterations on the Arcade building, San Diego, the cost amounting to $10,000.

TO BUILD HANDSOME HOME

Contractor Ed F. Hastings of Point Loma, has been engaged to build a fine residence for Dr. Thuner at La Playa, that will cost upwards of $20,000 when completed.

CHILD HURT BY AUTO

EVANGELIST SERVICES

ALL NEXT WEEK

Rev. James Holmes, the singing evangelist, will conduct services in the Baptist church every evening during the coming week. Rev. Holmes, in his address on Wednesday evening, said that what the world needed today was to know and experience the soul-saving faith of Jesus Christ. The world was failing to develop right character, because its methods did not take into consideration the natural tendency of man to sin. Intellectual development without the safe anchorage of faith in God only produces a Godless people.

Rev. Holmes' messages are clear-cut and convincing.

THEOSOPHICAL LEADER

WILL SPEAK SUNDAY

Katherine Tingley, leader of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical society, will speak next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Temple service at the International Theosophical Headquarters, Point Loma. The Raja Yoga tots, a group of the little folk of the Raja Yoga school, will sing two nature songs. The music program will also include a selection by the Isis Conservatory string quartet and a choral number by the full chorus of the Raja Yoga college.

BOY SCOUT ITEMS

Scout William Simpson, of Fresno, who is at present attending the Army and Navy Academy at Pacific Beach, has applied for membership as an associate scout of Troop 4, La Jolla.

Troop 26, Point Loma, is at present actively engaged in a membership campaign. The troop is also making arrangements for a big father and son night to be held in March.

Beginning with the March Court of Honor and continuing throughout the year, at every court session, a man who is an expert in his line of work will give a talk or demonstration on some line of merit badge work. The coming court will feature life-saving, and the San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric company will provide a practical demonstration of resuscitation.

EMERGENCY LIGHTS FOR

MISSION BOULEVARD

The city council last Tuesday cancelled the proposed ornamental light system and resolved to substitute seventy 600-candlepower lamps, a light to be installed on each pole between the tracks on Mission boulevard north of the Amusement Center, no cost for installation, and at a cost of 27c per month only, for lights for a period of two years. This will make an admirable temporary lighting system until a seawall, with conduits installed, can be erected, on which to attach light standards on the ocean front. After we have built an adequate seawall, we will then turn our attention to ornamental lights when the people are ready. At the council meeting last Tuesday the light proposition was referred to the city manager. Mayor Bacon said he thought there was a way in which these emergency lights can be hurried through without the usual preliminaries, so we expect these lights before long.

FREE INSTALLATION

The following is a copy of a letter written by C. H. P. Dellman, lighting sales engineer, of the San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric company: R. N. Ink, Mission, Beach, Cal.

Dear Sir: The installation of seventy 600-candle lamps on bracket arms attached to the poles between the tracks on Mission boulevard from Ventura place to Pacific avenue will be done by the San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric company without charge, providing the city of San Diego enters into a contract for the lighting of these lamps for a period of two years at the rate of $4.50 per lamp per month, or a total of $3780 per year. If this amount is assessed to the lots of Mission Beach (meaning those 1200 lots north of the Amusement Park), the cost should not exceed $3.15 per year per lot, or 27c per month. Very truly yours,

C. H. P. DELLMAN,
Lighting Sales Engineer, Commercial Dept., San Diego Cons. Gas & Electric Co.

Seawall First Consideration

The Mission Beach Chamber of Commerce made application to the city council on Feb. 15 for a seawall for the entire length of Mission Beach, comprising about one and three-fourth miles, and on Feb. 18 the city council recommended application to City Manager Fred Rhodes for types of construction and costs. We hope to have these figures within ten days, but rest assured we are not letting any grass grow under our feet, as all minds are at work to solve the problem to the best advantage.

LARGE NEW BUILDING

FOR OCEAN FRONT.

The two-story stucco flat building of Miss Katherine McNall, who is cashier for Barney & Rife, sales agents for the Mission Beach company, is well on its way. It is located just one block north of the Amusement Park on the ocean front between Ensenada and Dover. George Doss is the contractor.

SEEKING A RESIDENCE

Mr. and Mrs. John Coker and family moved temporarily to Pacific Beach after they were "washed out" by the storm. Dr. Clarence Rees' house, in which they were residing, was badly damaged. However, we are looking for a house large enough to accommodate them and they say they want to build here some time in the future. Mr. Coker is secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. and Mrs. Coker are entertaining Mrs. Fairfield of Boston for a few weeks.

ON NORTHERN TOUR

Mrs. Edward A. Kichham is making a tour of Northern California, leaving last Saturday for a visit to her husband's new skating rink at Los Angeles while on her way up the coast. She will return to her Mission Beach home in a few weeks.

Through With the Beach? Oh, No!

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Young and son, Paul, moved to San Diego on Feb. 13, after their furniture in their house on the ocean front received a sea-bath, saying they were through with the beach for some time. Two days elapsed and they were back with their furniture in their old home once more, saying they could not stay away from Mission Beach any longer. Many others have also moved back again and newcomers have also come in. There is much inquiry for real estate and some sales transactions, for far-sighted people realize that we are on the eve of prosperity, with a seawall so near at hand.

Moved from City to Beach

Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Buckles and their bouncing young son have moved from San Diego to their beach home at 818 Portsmouth court, arriving on the day of the "big wave." Mr. Buckles has fixed up his plumbing office in fine shape at 3727 Mission boulevard, and guarantees prompt and satisfactory service at all times.

Better Houses to Be Built

The ocean front cottages of Ova F. Eyles, Charles Burke and Harry K. Turner are being moved to Strand Way corner lots and also remodeled. The ocean front lots are now worth a better house than the old-time shacks, and they are all planning to build a fine class of home some time in the future where the old houses stood.

Reading And Talk By Gifted Writer

WINIFRED DAVIDSON

TO GIVE AN EVENING OF

"POINT LOMA LORE"

Under the auspices of the study department of the Ocean Beach Woman's club, Mrs. Winifred Davidson will give an evening of "Point Loma Lore" text Monday evening at the Congregational church, at eight o'clock.

Mrs. Davidson has promised to give a brief outline of the history of Point Loma with some of its most interesting incidents, and to read several of her own sonnets that best express its atmosphere, as "Isle of Loma," "Juan Cabrillo" and "Old Spanish Light-house," all of which have duly appeared in "The Beach News" during the publication of the "Loma Lore" series for many months.

The study department of the O. B. Woman's club feels especially fortunate in being able to offer to Ocean Beach the opportunity to hear this well known author, who has made her home on Point Loma for over twenty years and has spent the last six in an intensive effort to assemble the scattered material connected with its romantic history. All who appreciate the beauty and romance of Point Loma are invited.

Beaches Are Valuable To Entire City

EDITOR AL ROGERS A

BOOSTER FOR SEAWALL

"The Mission Beach Improvement company requests the city council to authorize the expense of the construction of a sea wall at Mission Beach, the city to pay two-thirds of the amount. Quite a number of San Diegans have purchased property at the beach and are living in homes that were seriously damaged by the recent storm and high tide.

"As to who or what organization should pay the bill there may be some question, but no one will deny the wisdom of authorizing the work at once. Our ocean beaches are among the city's most valuable assets, and citizens who spend their money on improvements deserve protection as far as the city is able to give it."—San Diego Labor Leader.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

"It's a Privilege to Live in California."

A. E. Miot, secretary of the Tulare County Board of Trade, at Visalia, reporting to his directors in the annual meeting recently held, announced partial figures of the recent farm survey conducted in that county, as well as elsewhere, by the federal bureau of the census, which indicates the steady development of farm lands even beyond the general conclusions. The total number of farms now listed in Tulare county, according to these figures, is 7,165, which represents an increase of 734 over the figures compiled from the federal census of 1920.

California is preparing 372 persons handicapped by physical disability for new vocations to which they are suited, it was announced by L. W. Kibby, chief of the rehabilitation bureau, state department of education. This total, Kibby said, does not include 89 persons recently forced to discontinue training temporarily because of illness. The state bureau's work is distinct from rehabilitation of former service men and designed to provide new occupations for persons disabled through illness or industrial accidents.

At the meeting of the directors of the Petaluma Co-operative Creamery company at Petaluma, Sonoma county, it was voted to give a bonus of 1 1/2 cents per pound on all butterfat delivered by members during the past six months and to pay a 4 per cent dividend on shares held by the stockholders of the company. The combined bonus and dividend means that the company is distributing among its stockholders or dairymen $14,000.

A marked revival of activity on the part of the Stanislaus-Merced National Farm Loan association was shown in reports at the annual meeting of the organization held in Turlock recently. The association was formed in 1917 and from then until September 3, 1923, loans totaling $150,000 were secured. From the latter date, when the management was reorganized, until January 1 last, the volume of loans was increased by more than $80,000.

Confronted by a prospective labor shortage which threatens to seriously handicap summer and fall harvests of the San Joaquin valley, representatives of farm bureaus, chambers of commerce and allied interests of the agricultural industry of seven counties in session at Fresno recently, took steps preliminary to the organization of an agency which will collect and distribute farm labor throughout seven counties.

Where bands of wild horses once ranged, and where elk and antelope roamed unmolested in amazing numbers three-quarters of a century ago, Selma, Fresno county, business men now quest for the prizes of modern civilization, their children through the schools and their industries, of which there was no trace, have in the lapse of less than a lifetime built a young, prosperous and promising city.

Applications for a water supply for two large Superior California projects were filed with the state division of water rights during the month of December. The largest were those of the Feather River Power company, which concern filed three applications for water from tributaries to the North Fork of the Feather river, in Plumas county. The project calls for an expenditure of $7,700,000.

A monster celebration, in which western Schoma county, and particularly the Bodega section, will join, will feature the completion of the permanent highway from Bodega Corners to Jenner, at the mouth of the Russian river. The highway, more than twenty-four miles long, will open up the great, dairy section of the coast and the beaches at Bodega bay and adjacent thereto.

Representative Lineberger, Republican, California, recently submitted to the house agricultural committee his bill to protect the national forests of southern California from forest fires. He explained that the forests are rapidly being denuded and are losing the moisture that is so valuable to Los Angeles and the thickly populated adjacent territory.

The rise of Sacramento county in financial wealth during the last decade is shown in a compilation prepared by County Treasurer Frank P. Christopher at Sacramento. The compilation shows that the receipts and disbursements of the county for the last year were approximately three times greater than ten years ago.

E. C. A new California religious cult has begun operations with the granting of a state charter to the Mohawk Association of Psychic Unfoldment. The organization, head by D. H. Roush of Arcadia, Los Angeles county, announces it intends to "cultivate spirituality and demonstrate the truth of modern spiritualism."

One hundred and seventy thousand dollars of the $1,000,000 budget appropriated by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway for improvements in the San Joaquin valley will be spent in Kern county, of which sum $127,000 will be allotted to betterments and extensions in Bakersfield and $43,000 at other points in the county.

A coating of ice that formed on pools of water on the flooring of the Feather river bridge near Marysville, Yuba county, caused temporary cessation of traffic between Marysville and Yuba City. The driver of a team of horses attached to a garbage wagon was compelled to tie the hoofs of the animals to make the crossing.

The seventy-eighth anniversary of gold discovery on January 24, brings to mind the part that agriculture has played in the history of Coloma, El Dorado county, during the past seventy-six years. Gold was discovered here in 1848 and during the following years the pioneers arrived here and in the Sierra Nevada foothills by the thousands to seek it. All, at first, were eager only for gold, but later some turned aside for farming. In 1850 seven fruit farms were started here and fruit farming has flourished ever since, while mining became a local industry.

Action, Stability in Five-Tube Set

Receiver Using Basket-Weave Coil Mounted Behind Condensers.

By CAPT. P. V. O'ROURKE
in Radio World.

The standard five-tube tuned RF set is shown in the diagram. The receiver uses basket-weave coils that are mounted behind the tuning condensers. This introduces an action in the circuit which tends toward stability. Unless this were done the tubes on the radio side would be uncontrollable.

As a further check upon disastrous action by the radio amplifying tubes the rheostat controlling the two RF winding being terminated then, the rest of the secondary (25 more turns) is put on. The small primary is used as a further aid in obtaining a receiver that will not cause troublesome oscillations.

The set, made under these directions, with .00035 mfd. tuning condensers, will tune approximately in step. One factor that tends to operate against this is the added capacity in the first radio transformer, L1L2, due to the aerial-ground system. Thus C1 might tune with readings a little lower than those of the other condensers. To get away from this four turns may be removed from the secondary of the first radio transformer, or, in the actual winding, the number of turns might be made four fewer than that on the other secondaries (i. e., 52 instead of 56).

The circuit enables one to use earphones at the detector output, but the jack providing for this purpose, J1, is to facilitate the tuning in of distant stations.

The circuit comprises two stages of tuned radio-frequency amplification, tube detector and two transformer-coupled stages of audio-frequency amplification.

The Tubes.

The tubes should be 201A, operated from a six-volt storage battery, with 45 volts or less of B battery on the detector plate and 90 on the RF and audio amplifier plates. The set will operate fairly well on dry-cell tubes, such as the 199 type, but the greater volume and amplification from the large tubes make it well worth while to spend the extra amount of money. Except with some types of superheterodynes, the small tubes, or any dry-cell tubes, are not for a permanent set, because in time the radio user goes over to the five-volt tubes, because of their more satisfying service.

The following parts will be needed:
Three radio-frequency transformers, basket-weave (L1L2, L3L4, L5L6).

Three .00035 mfd. variable condensers, C1, C2, C3.
One 7 by 18 inch panel.
One 2 1/2 by 17 inch socket shelf, with five sockets.
Two ten-ohm rheostats.
One double-circuit jack, J1.
One single-circuit jack, J2.
One 2 meg. grid leak.
One .00025 mfd. grid condenser.
Two audio-frequency transformers.
Three four-inch dials.

How to Connect Loop to Your Receiver Set

A loop antenna consists of a number of turns of wire arranged on a wooden framework of diamond or square shape.

One advantage of a loop antenna is the fact that it has directional qualities or will receive a signal from one direction with greater strength than from another. Also, in rotating the loop to help in selecting the station one wants to listen to, this kind of an antenna may at times aid in reducing interference from undesired stations or from static.

The extreme disadvantage of a loop antenna, however, is that with the gain of directional quality and possible selectivity, the overall received signal strength from a given station is usually very much reduced, requiring a receiver of extreme sensitivity, and possibly instability, if far-distant stations are to be received.

The drawing illustrates four different methods of connecting loop antennas to a radio receiver set. It will be often found that by using either of the methods shown here satisfactory reception of local and semi-distant broadcasting stations up to possibly 200 to 500 miles can be had.

When using a loop with neutrodyne radio receivers, it is extremely desirable that the loop be placed from 6 feet to 10 feet away from the receiver to eliminate possible interference with one another. Results with a loop can probably be equalled if not excelled by using about 20 feet of wire strung around the picture molding, making up a simple indoor antenna.—Cleveland News

New Stocking Colors

The new stockings come in the most exquisite shades and they have names almost as alluring as the colors. Mauve, atmosphere and ecstasy are some of the light shades that enjoy a wide success.

Decorative Ornaments

In place of an animal, or fruit of brilliant the smart woman now wears her initials in diamonds on her small untrimmed felt hat.

Metal Cloth Shawls

Truly gorgeous are the new shawls of metal brocade. A most beautiful one seen recently was of blue and gold brocade with an extremely long fringe of blue silk.

Blue, Velvet and Silver

A blue velvet tunic that is knee-length has a plaited skirt of dull silver. The tunic is trimmed with silver embroidery, with small disks of steel or silver forming the design.

Shakespeare Up-to-Date Tells Motorists' Terrible Toll

SHAKESPEARE'S seven ages of mankind made no reference to the number who were cut off in their prime by automobiles. If he had, suggests the Stewart-Warner Safety Council, it might have run something like this parody on his famous lines:

At first the infant,
Killed by a truck while in his nurse's arms,
And then the careless schoolboy with his marbles,
Playing in the streets after his lessons
Are over. And then the lover,
Absent-minded, walking with a box of candy
Under his arm, to see his loved one,
Is struck by a taxi and hurled to the ground.
Next comes the gay young blood
Out for his evening's entertainment, whom Sixty miles an hour lands forty years too soon
Upon a slab in some unfriendly morgue.
And then the banker, full of worldly pride and honors,
Jay-walks across the street between two mighty deals of finance,
And wakes to find Saint Peter quizzing him.
Next, the family man, with years upon him,
Confused and jostled in the crowd,
Mistaken, and dies amid thanksgiving
That his last premium was paid up.
And last, hoary age, tottering and feeble,
Perhaps with crutch, or eye too dimmed with time,
An easy victim for some selfish motorist,
Sins care, sins thought, sins skill, sins everything—but speed.

The chart above shows what proportion of all accidents happening to each age-group are automobile accidents. The toll is highest for the very young and very old. This situation is explained partly by the heedlessness of the young and the infirmity of old age. Moreover, these two groups are least involved in industrial accidents which makes their automobile casualties constitute a larger part of their total accidents.

THE large demand for both feeder and fat cattle, finds the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation in its cattle marketing investigations, has inspired a much greater confidence in the future of the industry. The first recovery of the beef cattle market came early in 1925 with a steadily progressing trend of prices from February to August. The average prices paid to farmers, states the Foundation, in the first ten months of the year ran 65 cents higher than the prices of last year and the highest since 1920. Chicago prices were also the highest for that period for the last five years.

Liquidation of western cattle herds was much less noticeable in 1925 than in any year since 1919, showing that the cattle industry is gradually getting back to a state of normalcy. The total number of cattle, slaughtered under federal inspection in 1925, was 5 per cent greater than in 1924.

Baby beef, made from young cattle that have been pushed to a desirable market weight of around 1,000 pounds at an early age, brought the highest prices. Public demand for smaller cuts of choice beef have made the half-ton baby beef popular on the market.

Dirty Spectacles

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

"THE trouble with you, Willie," Anna Irving said to Willie Withers in "My Lady of the Chimney Corner," "you see people through dirty specs. Each poor creature is made up of some good and much that isn't so good, and you see only what isn't so good."

Willie was an ignorant peasant who had the mistaken idea that people are only what they seem, that it showed keenness and discrimination on his part to discover weaknesses and frailties and imperfections in those whom he met. He had the idea, too, that when he saw evil in others this same discovery magnified the good which he found in himself. He excused his own errors by finding faults in his friends.

It is a common fault this looking through dirty spectacles, this seeing only the wretched and the unwholesome things in the world.

I had a letter today from a man of experience and education. It was full of statements and statistics to prove that the world is rapidly going to the bad, that young people today are without principles, are devoid of character, will not take responsibility, and given only to the gratification of their physical desires; that crime and drunkenness and dissipation in general are rapidly and hopelessly increasing. He sees no good in the rising generation because he is looking at them through dirty spectacles. Statistics can be marshaled to prove anything, and yet I cannot be made to believe that this world of ours is so completely bad.

I have always been interested in Mrs. Fallon. She has a wide circle of acquaintances, she sees a good deal of society. She is herself a part of many social affairs, and yet I have never heard her unreservedly commend anything. The luncheon she attended may have been ever so carefully arranged and served, there was always something at fault. The salad was not properly chilled, the coffee was weak, the pastry was not to her taste. If she listened to a musical program she could always detect false notes or bad technique or she thought the selections not well made. Nothing in her eyes was perfect and nobody. She looked on her little world through clouded spectacles. She never was able to see the "some good" in the creatures about her, but always magnified the "much that isn't so good."

WHAT SIX PER CENT WILL DO!

If $1000 were set aside today at 6 per cent compounded semi-annually, it would amount to $369,360 in one hundred years. Some time ago it was stated that $70 was deposited in a bank with the stipulation that it was to be left untouched until the year 2224, when, at the bank's current interest rates it will amount to $14,000,000. At 6 per cent it would grow to over $3,500,000,000.

These figures are beyond the grasp of the imagination. There is a lesson contained in them, however, which can be grasped by all of us. And that is that if we save our money and let it grow along perfectly natural and normal lines, it will bring rewards beyond belief.

"Wealth generally" comes through patient upbuilding and the working out of perfectly natural processes," state the officials of the Community Building and Loan association at Sixth and B streets, San Diego, where 6 per cent is the slogan of their successful activities.

NEW "STAGE FIXINGS" NEEDED

It is being freely predicted that the tariff is to be made a leading political issue.

What a pity! The tariff should be as free from partisan politics as the tax question.

Our lawmakers, in many instances, seem to be the last persons to realize that the American people are past the kindergarten stage in understanding of questions of public interest. It is silly to try to fool our people with the political fairy tales of the past.

The nation wants economy in government. It wants tax sanity and it wants a businesslike administration of the tariff question, in the interest of American workmen and American industry.

The tariff is no longer part of the "stage fixings" for either the Democratic or Republican party, any more than is the tax question or economy in government. These are today public questions of equal importance to all people, and the people are apparently better posted on the situation than many of their lawmakers.

bridge last Thursday.

Miss Ida Smith and Miss Rosalie Keith, who have been sojourning at the Craggs, were hostesses last Wednesday at a dinner party for Dr. and Mrs. George Wallace, Mrs. R. F.
Smith, Mrs. Kneflex and Mrs. E. T.
Tausig, of Jamestown, R. I. Miss Smith is from London, England, where she and Miss Keith will return in the summer.

Mrs. Harold E. Lutes, of San Diego, entertained a party of thirty-eight at a delightful luncheon, followed by bridge, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Halm, of Millington, New Jersey; Miss Anna
Heins, of Newark, N. J.; Miss Ella
M. Crowell, formerly of Newark but now of La Jolla, formed a delightful dinner party early this week. Mr.
Halm is a great student of cacti growth and will endeavor to transplant the tropical product in Jersey.
He has purchased considerable acreage near Lake Hodges and will cultivate the plant there.

Miss Margaret Harkin, who was an efficient and well-known school teacher for over forty years in Chicago, has arrived here to spend a very enjoyable visit with her old-time friend, Mrs. A. C. Burch, owner and manager of the Lodge. Miss Harkin recently returned from a pleasant European trip and is now touring California.

THIRTY-FIRST WEDDING

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Piersall, of 2221 Abbott street, celebrated last Saturday the thirty-first anniversary of their wedding. They were the happy recipients of hearty congratulations from many friends and relatives. A special dinner was served in their behalf last Sunday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Hazel Johnston, of East San Diego, and on the following day they were honored dinner guests at the residence of their son, R. A. Piersall, on Thorn street, San Diego. "The Beach News" staff join in the joyful chorus of wishing them a whole lot more happy anniversaries.

ON THE BEACH

Last Monday evening a most delightful beach and dancing party was given at Pacific Beach and Mission Beach to compliment Miss Elvera Kunath and her brother, Credo Kunath, who are visiting in Encanto with their mother, Mrs. Lou Nelson.
A large group of their friends were hosts and hostesses to the honor guests, who expect to return to their home in South Dakota early next month.

A huge bonfire was built on the sands for roasting wieners and marshmallows, and a number of novel stunts were given, included among them a "bathing beauty" contest for the young men of the party. Dancing was enjoyed later at the Mission Beach Casino.

Hosts and hostesses for the affair
included: Misses Lily Magnusson, Ethel Magnusson, Helen Randall,
Frances Watson, Vivian Jordan, Pearl Gundred, Dorothy Dutton, Mary Ellis; Mrs. Betty Perry Ball, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Firkins, Mr. and Mrs. Or-

The Original Turk

Historians tell us that the first Turk was a grandson of Noah.
Although eight people were in the ark when it floated, a ninth was born aboard, a son of Japheth. He was named Turk.
Turks and Mongols were closely related by birth. Some of the original Turkish family names exist to the present time.

Sleeve and Vestee Sets Give Smart Touch to Any Frock

Want to make your last season's sleeveless black satin frock take on airs of "the very latest?" A detachable sleeve and vestee set as pictured will do the trick. The modish long and full sleeves which fashion declares we must wear give individuality to the most ordinary dress.

If you are fortunate enough to have your attention called to "travelers' samples," ignore not the opportunity.
Buy up a half dozen or more of the perfectly gorgeous lengths of gold and silver lace or marvelous embroidered bands which one "gets for a song."
Then to home and a quiet nook in the sewing room, where with your treasures spread before you let genius inspire deft fingers for the victorious achievement of a handsome detachable sleeve and collar set warranted to transform the simplest frock into a costume smart enough for bridge party, afternoon tea or select club meeting.

The sleeves in this picture are made of rose-hedge georgette with gold lace gathered in to the wristband.

A UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE

THE scenes and sounds of a great city speak in a vernacular which is readily understood by him whose eyes and ears are attuned to the splendor and the din.

And what is true concerning the seasoned citizen is proportionately true of the verdant visitor who at a glance interprets the meaning of the smile of a sturdy beggar grinding a hand-organ while his picturesquely frocked companion rattles a tambourine.

The chiming in the church steeple, the tinkling bells of the itinerant peddler of many wares, speak to all in a familiar tongue.

The Russian or the Greek who cannot frame a word of English knows well the lingo of the clattering milk cans in the early morning and answers their call with alacrity.

Who is so untutored that he cannot read the joy of the sound of the babbling brooks, or the love in the song of the happy bird that is singing among the green hills to his mate?

And the cumulus clouds with their ever-changing forms, their happy tints of purple and gold and silver, go sailing by in the evening sky, telling their tales of magnificence which cannot be put in words, but which are easily comprehended by the lovers of the sublime and the worshippers of Him who changes in a second the colors of the world.

The sigh and the songs of the winds! Who does not delight in their whisperings among the forest trees and the flowers, their moaning roars over the waters of the deep, their lullabies in the night when the earth is still, and sleep, half-dreaming, closes weary eyes to refresh and give them new luster for a day unborn?

Their language is universal, understood by creeping things, by beasts, by men and the angels.

This is no dead classic whose message is obscure.

Every word is a liquid gem, requiring no scholarship, no knowledge beyond that which Nature bestows and inspiring, like the master stroke of a painter's brush or the magic note of a nightingale alone, with the listening stars of night, shining his little throat in praising his Maker.

TOMORROW MORNING

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

LET me lie down tonight content
To take my burden up again
Tomorrow morning. Labor spent,
Let me lie down content, and then Arise tomorrow morning glad
To take again the task I had.

Let me return to my old task
Tomorrow morning glad to see
Some duty that the day will ask Tomorrow morning 'waiting me—
Yes, be it counter, bench or chair,
Be glad to find it waiting there.

But how tomorrow morning may
I know the joy of day's return?
Because, I wonder, of my pay.
Because of money that I earn?
Well, men are paid a worthy hire
A lot of times, and yet they tire.

Tomorrow morning most depends
On not tomorrow but tonight.
Because today we lived it right
That makes tomorrow morning seem
A dawn as lovely as a dream,
Live well the day, do well the deed.

Whatever deed is yours to do,
For, if you do, you do not need
To worry over mornings now,
Nor fear the sun, if this one sets
Amid no shadows of regrets.

Live well today, and leave no frayed
And tangled ends of things half done,
Things poorly said or poorly made.
To greet tomorrow morning's sun.
If you would see the sun arise,
Then leave no clouds upon your skies.

Mother's Cook Book

When it shall be said of any country in the world, my poor are happy; neither ignorance nor distress is to be found among them; my jails are empty of prisoners, my streets of beggars; the aged are not in want, the taxes are not oppressive; the rational world is my friend, because I am the friend of happiness; when these things can be said, then may that country boast of its constitution and its government.—Thomas Paine.

WINTER SANDWICHES

A LIST of good fillings for sandwiches is always welcome, for when one entertains there is nothing more satisfying than a well-made sandwich.

Sardine Sandwiches.

Remove sardines from the box, drain on soft paper to remove the oil. Scrape off the skin, remove the bones and mince very fine. Finely chop the white part of two hard cooked eggs, add to the sardines and press the yolks through a ricer into the mixture. Season with salt, cayenne and moisten with mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing. Use as filling between slices of white bread.

Peanut Sandwiches.

Finely chop one pint of freshly roasted peanuts; then pound them in a mortar until smooth, season with salt and moisten with thick cream. Use as filling between thin slices of white bread. Trim off crusts and cut into three narrow strips. Serve with orange pekoe tea, pass crystallized ginger.

Date and Ginger Sandwiches.

Finely chop equal measures of dates and preserved ginger. After draining the latter from its sirup, mix thoroughly and moisten with sirup from the ginger jar, flavor with ground orange or lemon peel. Add one-fourth cupful of water, cook until the right consistency to spread. Spread between lady fingers, sponge cake or slices of brown bread. Serve with cocoa or tea.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day, lucky jewel

SELINA

SELINA is sometimes spelled Selena, and the latter shows clearly the influence of its interesting origin. It was adopted in England under the mistaken impression that it reproduced the French Celine, an error which later proved fortunate since it introduced a charming name fitted to the fairest English maid.

Selina signifies "moon." Selene was the Greek term for the moon and named another moon goddess, separate from Artemis, or Diana. It seems to have been a favorite with goddesses and sirens and other beautiful women of early history. One of the Cleopatras was so called, we are told.

Long popular in Greece and Egypt, it did not make its appearance in England until the Nineteenth century when it was adopted by the Wesleyan Community of Huntingdon. Since then, its vogue has been widespread on both sides of the Atlantic. In this country it is generally regarded as a Puritan name by those who are not aware of its earlier association with famous sirens.

The moonstone is Selina's talismanic gem. It will bring her success in love and will preserve her charm and graciousness. Monday is her lucky day and 3 her lucky number.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE GUANACOS

"Good-morning, Mrs. Guanaco."
"Why, good-morning, Mr. Guanaco."
"And pray tell me just why you say 'Why' before you say good-morning?"
"For no reason at all," said Mrs. Guanaco.

"I am glad of that," replied Mr. Guanaco.

Now the guanaco is about the size of the llama, or about the size of a small deer.

It has thick, shaggy hair which is rather soft and of a red or auburn shade.

"I have no hair on my legs in some places," said Mr. Guanaco.

"Neither have I," said Mrs. Guanaco.

"We're very much alike," said Mr. Guanaco.

"It's because we belong to the same family," said Mrs. Guanaco.

"How dull our conversation is," Mr. Guanaco said after a moment.

Mrs. Guanaco was far from being insulted or angry.

She smiled in guanaco fashion and said:

"We are dull, it is true.

"We are just about as stupid as it is possible to be. And yet people think we are interesting. I suppose they judge us from our looks.

"Our looks are better than our brains. They're more useful. Our brains are not much, not much," she said.

"The only trouble is," said Mr. Guanaco, "that we're so stupid that often we are killed because we haven't the sense to get out of the way or protect ourselves."

"We haven't been killed often, have we?" asked Mrs. Guanaco.

"I should say we haven't," replied Mr. Guanaco. "If we had we wouldn't be here now."

"To be killed once is enough, quite enough, and too much for any creature."

"Oh," said Mrs. Guanaco.

"Now I understand," she added, after a moment.

"Are we apt to be killed here in the zoo?" she said a little later.

"Oh, no," said Mr. Guanaco, "we are safe here. In South America where our family lives there are always such chances, but here we are quite, quite safe."

It Has Thick, Shaggy Hair.

"Oh, how blissful," said Mrs. Guanaco.

"To be safe and to be stupid, to eat and dream and never to think or get tired out working our heads off with plans and schemes—what a wonderful thing life is then."

"Yes, life is wonderful when one is a guanaco and is stupid enough never to want anything and never to try for anything."

"Just what I think," said Mr. Guanaco.

"Exactly what I think," said Mrs. Guanaco.

"We don't have to think up bright things to say," said Mrs. Guanaco.

"Of course I couldn't if I tried, but it is a relief not to have to try."

"A great relief," said Mr. Guanaco.

"A great relief. And it is so nice you do not expect too much of me."

"The same thought is often with me," said Mrs. Guanaco.

"We're satisfied," said Mr. Guanaco.

"Quite," said Mrs. Guanaco.

Coat-Dress Has Strong Appeal; Smart Party Frocks of Taffeta

WHILE praise of the two-piece dress is being shouted from the housetops of fashionland the aristocratic one-piece, tailored, such as the picture shows, goes quietly and elegantly on in the tenor of its way. In fact, the coat street dress has not lost in prestige. Of course as an exponent of ultrasmartness it must be fashioned of cloth of first quality, displaying correct detailing of collar, one which will give eminent satisfaction from the standpoint of both utility and arresting appearance, is of covert cloth made in double-breasted fashion, featuring sleeves that fall into a wrist band.

In what a capricious mood do we find fashion these days. Especially in the matter of party frocks, and formal evening gowns, the mode has gone to extremes. Just as milady cuffs and pockets. Especially this season does the mode exact of the one-piece tailleur that it be of high-grade material and exquisite finish.

The one-piece model pictured here answers all the requisites of a patrician type. It is man-tailored of hand-some gray luster twill. The front opening buttons so as to accent a cleverly manipulated inverted plait which, while it gives necessary fullness about the hemline, in no way detracts from the slenderized straight-line silhouette. Fashion dictates out-in pockets for the mannish tailleur and here you have them. A charming feminine touch is bespoken in the vestee of flesh-colored satin.

Much might be said in regard to the new vogue for flesh and pale pink colored accessories to the tailored costume. Whereas once we chose white has been completely won over to the idea of dresses as narrow, as straight-line and as short as can possibly be, stylists suddenly throw upon the screen billowy full skirts, with bodices which somewhat mold to the figure, the entire ornate with lace flouncings and flower trimmings.

So here we are confronted with a study in contrasts—slender svelte modernistic frocks versus bouffant picturesque period gowns. Stylists invite you to take your choice.

When the imposing robe de style, with its yards and yards of material in the skirt first made its appearance this season it was not taken seriously, but now its acceptance as a reigning mode for evening has become a fact rather than a passing fancy. Another very charming interpretation of the full-skirted mode takes on the quaint expression of the 1830 frocks as well as those of Colonial days.

The lovely taffeta frock shown in the picture is without a doubt a strong argument in favor of the bouffant and the picturesque. The taffeta is changeable, its exquisite rose-lavender tones reflected in the handmade tinted silk flowers which together with beautiful lace adorn this picture frock.

By the way, a taffeta silk vogue is silk, crepe or satin collars, cuffs and vestees, the last word from Paris favors fascinating delicate pink tints.

Returning to the subject of the coat frock, favored materials for its interpretation include first of all hard-finished luster twills, the sort that always look spick and span and seem impervious to effects of dust and lint. The favor for gray in various degrees is amounting almost to a fad. It is said that gray fur neckpieces will be worn with these handsomely tailored one-piece street dresses. Beige also has its adherents.

FLUSH TANK TROUBLES EASILY REPAIRED

Compound Lever Ball Cock in Flush Tank.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Among the parts of the home plumbing system most frequently out of order and needing attention is the flush tank of the toilet. Very often the trouble may be easily located by a member of the family and corrected at little cost without sending for a plumber, says the United States Department of Agriculture in a new Farmers' Bulletin, 1469, "Simple Plumbing Repairs in the Home." The first illustration, Figure A, shows an ordinary compound lever ball cock to control the water supply in a flush tank. The float ball and the seat washer on the bottom of the plunger are the only parts likely to need repairs. The buoyancy of the float is screw the two thumbscrews which pivot the float-rod lever and plunger lever. Push the two levers to the left, drawing the plunger lever through the head of the plunger. Lift out the plunger, unscrew the cap on the bottom of the plunger, insert a soft, new washer, and reassemble the parts. The cap may be so corroded and weakened that it breaks during removal from the plunger. A new cap is then necessary, and it is well to have one or two on hand. When putting a washer on a ball cock, examine the seat to see that it is free of nicks and grit. It may need regrinding.

A flush valve, used in a low tank is also erratic. Probably no other plumbing in the home needs attention so often. It is under water and subject to fouling and neglect. The hollow rubber ball gets out of shape, and fails to drop squarely into the hollowed seat. The handle and lever fail to work smoothly or the lift wires get out of plumb, causing the ball to remain up when it should drop to its seat. To remove these difficulties, stop inflow to the tank by holding up the float of the ball cock or supporting it with a stick. Drain the tank by raising the rubber ball. If the ball is worn, out of shape, or has lost its elasticity, unscrew the lower lift wire from the ball and replace with a new one. A 2 1/2-inch rubber ball costs about 25 cents, and a new one should always be kept in the home. The lift wires should be straight and plumb. The lower lift wire is readily centered over the center of the valve by means of the adjustable guide holder. By loosening the thumbscrew, the holder is raised, lowered or rotated about the overflow tube.

Adjustment Important.

By loosening the lock nut and turning the guide screw, the horizontal position of the guide is fixed exactly over the center of the valve. These adjustments are very important. The upper lift wire should loop into the lever arm hole nearest to a vertical from the center of the valve. A tank should empty within ten seconds. Owing to lengthening of the rubber ball and insufficient rise from its seat, the time may be longer than ten seconds with a correspondingly weak flush. This trouble may be overcome by shortening the loop in the upper lift wire. A drop or two of lubricating oil on the lever mechanism makes it work more smoothly.

Plunger and Washer Holder Cap.

the force which lowers the plunger, shutting off the water as the tank fills. A leaky, waterlogged float holds the plunger up, permitting constant flow and waste of water. A small leak in a copper float can be soldered. If a glass float is broken or a copper float is badly corroded, do not try to repair it. A new five-inch copper float costs about 40 cents.

Plunger and Washer.

Figure B shows the plunger and washer-holder cap which screws on the bottom of the plunger. The washer should be soft rubber or leather, because the force which holds it to its seat is not heavy. The cap is thin brass. To replace the washer, shut off the water and drain the tank. Un-

MAKE BUDGET TO HELP IN SAVING

Get Whole Family to Co-operate in Plan.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Resolve to save more in 1926 than you did last year. The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture says, "Make a budget," and tells you how to do it.

First, estimate the size of your income for the coming year, without being too optimistic. Put down what you are fairly sure you will have. It is always easier to spend a bit of extra income than it is to make a smaller income go a little farther.

Now make a list of all the things your family will have to have for the year. Rent, fuel, light, and all the things for running the house, food, clothes for each person, taxes, insurance. You ought to have some fun, buy some books, give something to a good cause. You must look after your health. You want to save something. Put it all down. Include every little item and what you think each will cost. Add up your list. How does it compare with your estimated income? If it is smaller, you are happy. If not, go over your list. Use your imagination. There are leaks, and you can find them. But you can't spend more than you make and be comfortable.

Your budget is made. You have a spending and saving plan for 1926. Get the whole family to co-operate in using it. No doubt before the year is over by all working together you will improve it. There is no law against changing a budget once made if you change it for the better.

The budget will be easy to live up to if you get an account book—any blank book will do—and write down in it each day what you have spent. Don't jumble up all the items together. Put all the food items on one page, all the clothes on another, all the savings on a third, and so on. Add up each page at the end of every month. Compare the totals with your budget.

Spoon Cornbread With Bacon Is Hard to Resist

Spoon cornbread with bacon is a breakfast combination that is hard to resist. The spoon bread is usually baked in an iron skillet, although a baking dish may be used. Because of its smooth, rather moist texture, it is eaten with a spoon or fork. The United States Department of Agriculture gives the following directions for making spoon bread:

Spoon Bread.

1 cupful cornmeal, 2 cupfuls water, 1 teaspoonful salt, 2 eggs, 1 tablespoonful fat, 1 cupful milk.

Place the meal, salt, shortening and water in a double boiler and cook for ten minutes, stirring until thick and smooth. Allow this to cool, then add the well-beaten eggs and finally thin down to a batter with the milk. Beat well, pour into a greased pan or baking dish, bake in a rather hot oven for about thirty minutes, and serve directly from the pan in which it was cooked.

"But constipation is serious, Grace"

"Not so long ago I was like you—headaches a good deal of the time, sleeping badly, and the least bit of housework tired me out. My complexion too, was bad."

"Finally, I went to see Dr. Farman. He showed me that it was constipation that was back of my troubles. He said that it was a very serious thing because poisons from clogged waste matter were picked up by the blood and carried to every body organ. And if I didn't correct it in time I might become a victim of one of those terrible organic diseases."

"He made me drop laxatives altogether, changed my diet, and put me on Nujol. I don't think I've ever felt better."

I sleep well, my headaches have disappeared, and you can see for yourself what an improvement there is in my skin. Nujol has done wonders for me."

Nujol Works Like Nature

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It is neither a food nor a medicine. It does not gripe. It is gentle and natural in its action and is prescribed by leading medical authorities.

Nujol simply makes up for a deficiency—temporary or chronic—in the supply of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination without overtaxing the intestinal muscles.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly, in accordance with the directions on each bottle. As Nujol is not a laxative, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol today and begin the perfect health that is possible only when intestinal elimination is normal and regular.

WISE BUSINESS MEN ADVERTISE CONTINUALLY

Despite the unprecedented success of the Ford Motor company and its constantly increasing sales, Henry Ford continues to advertise. Why? No one has a better understanding of the value of continued advertising. Henry Ford knows what makes the business wheels go around. He knows that printer's ink in the form of advertising is the motive force that makes sales. And just as he understands that gasoline is needed to make an automobile go, he knows that advertising is essential to make business hum.

The sixth annual policeman's ball was held on Friday, Feb. 19, in the Dance Casino at Mission Beach, the proceeds of the dance going to the Police Relief association. At the same time, Bertram Ward, who was assisting in the rescue of Thanel, and Harry Hobbs, were rescued by Lifeguards Ed Rose, D. H. Van Patton, E. Varney and George Evans. This heroic rescue comprised a fifteen-minute battle with the waves.

Here's a Ship Without a Country

The other day there entered the harbor of Los Angeles that unique thing—a ship without a country. It is the big tanker Niobe and she violates all marine traditions and customs by having no port of registry and no nation of her own. The Niobe was a German war unit seized by the allies and the inter-allied conference was unable to decide to what country to allot her. Consequently she has no home port nor land. For want of a better flag she flies the flag of the inter-allied conference at her tail.
